1. INTRODUCTION – BACKGROUND

1.1. Programme/Legal base

This call for proposals is published under REGULATION (EU) No 1296/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2013 on a European Union Programme for Employment and Social Innovation ("EaSI")¹ and amending Decision No 283/2010/EU establishing a European Progress Microfinance Facility for employment and social inclusion.

The European Programme for Employment and Social Innovation "EaSI" 2014-2020² is a European-level financing instrument managed directly by the European Commission to contribute to the implementation of the Europe 2020 strategy, by providing financial support for the Union's objectives in terms of promoting a high level of quality and sustainable employment, guaranteeing adequate and decent social protection, combating social exclusion and poverty and improving working conditions.

The EaSI Programme shall, in all its axes and actions, aim to:

- (a) pay particular attention to vulnerable groups, such as young people;
- (b) promote equality between women and men,
- (c) combat discrimination based on sex, racial or ethnic origin, religion or belief, disability, age or sexual orientation;
- (d) promote a high-level of quality and sustainable employment, guarantee adequate and decent social protection, combat long-term unemployment and fight against poverty and social exclusion.

Hence, in designing, implementing and reporting on the activity, beneficiaries/contractors must address the issues noted above and will be required to provide detail, in the final activity report on the steps and achievements made towards addressing those aims.

1.2. Policy and economic background

Social enterprises as vehicles for job creation

Boosting Jobs, Growth and Investment is one of the main priorities of the European Union. In line with this goal, the Commission considers entrepreneurship to be a powerful tool in getting Europe growing again and increasing the number of jobs without creating new debt.

Social entrepreneurs and social enterprises³ are drivers of change that operate on the basis of viable business models. Social enterprises develop innovative approaches, models or practices

² <http://ec.europa.eu/social/main.jsp?langId=en&catId=1081>

³ For the purpose of this call for Proposals, the following terms are used synonymously:

- social business, social enterprise and social venture;
- social finance, social investment and impact investment
- Structural Funds and European Structural and Investment Funds

for resolving societal challenges in an entrepreneurial way to promote inclusive, socially fair and environmentally sustainable economic development and social change. Their economic operations cover a broad spectrum of activities (including in particular social and economic integration of the disadvantaged and excluded, social services of general interest, reducing emissions and waste, or producing renewable energy).

Thus social enterprises can help meeting the Europe 2020 targets⁴ for employment, innovation, climate change and energy sustainability, education and social inclusion.

Lack of or poor access to finance is still perceived as one of the most significant barriers for starting up a social enterprise, ensuring its sustainability and growth. The Social Business Initiative⁵ emphasized that the funding system for social enterprises is underdeveloped in relation to that used by other businesses. This was confirmed by a study that looked at imperfections in the social investment market⁶ and a Commission study on mapping of social enterprises and their eco-systems in Europe⁷, as well as a number of national studies which would confirm that the demand of social enterprises for capital is not met in most parts of Europe.

To be able to access the social investment market, social enterprises have to be 'investment ready'. In this context, specialised capacity building support is important to help social enterprises acquire the skills and knowledge they need in order to raise external investment.

Barriers in the social finance market

Barriers to develop and strengthen the market for social finance have a different weight across Europe, the most relevant being:

- On the supply side: lack of suitable financial instruments in place; a shortage of investors prepared to invest; scarcity of significant public sector initiatives; little experience in specifying a sustainable investment strategy and risk/return profile of a social finance fund; lack of capacities and tools to assess the viability of business plans and social impact, insufficient quality of investment proposals, absence of market facilitators (such as qualified intermediaries and market places) or business angels etc.
- On the demand side: excessive dependence on grants and insufficient orientation towards capital markets; legal structures which discourage the attraction of (quasi-) equity; lack of transparency of the market for social finance; insufficient experience in making proposals for external financing, or for combining different sources and types of finance (e.g. grants/loans); costs of getting investment ready; insufficient infrastructures /business development services/ incubators; low ability of investees to operationally scale-up or replicate notably in transnational context etc.

1.3. Main Purposes

Social Entrepreneurship support under the European Union Programme for Employment and Social Innovation (EaSI)

One of the objectives of EaSI is to promote employment and social inclusion by increasing the availability and accessibility of microfinance for vulnerable groups and micro-enterprises, and by increasing access to finance for social enterprises.

Through the third axis of EaSI, for Microfinance and Social Enterprise Finance, over 86 million EUR will be earmarked to stimulate, broaden and speed up the development of social finance markets across Europe between 2014 and 2020.

The Commission aims at supporting the development of the impact investment market and facilitating access to finance for social enterprises by making available financing for social enterprises which could take the form of a combination of equity, quasi-equity and loan instruments. The total amount that a social enterprise can receive is EUR 500 000 (state aid rules to be respected). Support under the programme will be limited to enterprises, not listed on the stock market, with a maximum of EUR 30m turnover (most social enterprises are smaller).

For the implementation of the financial instruments under the EaSI Programme, the Commission cooperates with the European Investment Fund. Since June 2015, the EaSI Social Entrepreneurship Guarantee, with a budget of EUR 40m, is operational.

Lessons from previous EU support actions

A European Parliament preparatory action was launched in the past through the call for proposals "Supporting the demand and supply side of the market for social enterprise finance". The pilot initiative aimed at testing the potential of the finance market for social enterprises in the EU, and the development and establishment of feasible, suitable and reliable models that facilitate the access of social enterprises to funding.

The lessons learned from the pilot actions indicate that the finance market for social enterprises in the EU is still at an early stage of development. Building the capacity of the supply side (finance providers/intermediaries) to create partnerships and develop new funding instruments for social enterprises, as well as of the demand side (through capacity building and investment readiness schemes for social enterprises to support their consolidation, growth and scaling) has to continue.

To make the best use of the experience of the pilot actions, a "Practical guide on designing and implementing initiatives to develop the social finance market"⁸ has been drawn up. The guide is intended to take readers through the thinking and decision-making process that investors or social finance intermediaries can follow in designing and piloting initiatives to develop the demand or supply side of the finance market for social enterprises, pointing out key considerations and possible pitfalls, illustrated by case studies and examples.

2. OBJECTIVE(S) –STRANDS OF THE CALL– EXPECTED RESULTS - MONITORING

2.1. Objectives

The objective of the call for proposals is to contribute to the development of a social finance market by enabling more social enterprises to take on repayable finance for developing and scaling up their innovative business model. The support aims at:

- Boosting the supply of social finance through institution and capacity building with committed actors, and
- Generating effective demand among social enterprises for social finance by developing their “investment readiness”.

As such, the actions to be funded under this call for proposals are expected to contribute to realising the potential of social entrepreneurship emphasised in the Commission’s Social Business Initiative 2011, as well as in the Communications ‘Towards a job-rich recovery’ 2012⁹, the ‘Social Investment for Growth and Cohesion’ 2013¹⁰ and the Guidelines for the Employment Policies of the Member States for 2015¹¹.

The main tasks of the actions will be to develop and establish feasible, suitable and reliable financial instruments (Strands A and B) or hybrid finance packages (Strand C), to build capacities to use such instruments (Strand D), or to reinforce the capacity of social enterprise support organisations (strand E). In doing so, the partners implementing an action will explore and test effective ways of establishing, consolidating, sustaining and linking social finance schemes and instruments, capacity building programmes for using such instruments, reinforcing capacities of social enterprise support organisations, and organizing learning on what works and how, as well as what does not work, and why.

The call for proposals is addressed to social finance or support partnerships for social enterprises that have the potential for:

- realising innovative solutions with a clear societal impact, or
- scaling their innovative approach through growth,
- replication or adaptation.

Thus, the actions supported under this call for proposals are expected to pave the way for:

- a swift uptake of EU social finance instruments (notably the EaSI instruments and financial instruments under the European Structural and Investment Funds) by the creation of a pipeline of demand of social finance partnerships capable of using the EaSI instruments to share risk, improve capitalization, and build capacity, in particular from Member States with less developed social finance markets;

- learning from different models and good practice in developing and enhancing social finance across the Union, through organized sharing and disseminating of expertise and experience, and through presenting practical examples that demonstrate how (public-private) partnerships can effectively invest in or complement suitable financial products, as well as develop demand through assisting social enterprises in getting investment ready.

In order to achieve these objectives, the Commission will set up a learning network of the grant beneficiaries, encourage them to incorporate their projects into national, regional, or local development strategies, and assist them in using EU financial instruments, in particular the European Structural and Investment Funds.

2.2. Strands of the call

In order to take into account the variety of social finance market situations, the call offers several strands. Each of them addresses a specific configuration of barriers in the social finance market. Strands A, B and C act on the supply side of social finance, strand D and E on the demand side.

For all strands, the focus of the action should be on supporting social enterprises that aim at social impact and are financially sustainable. A critical segment of the social finance market is that of smaller deals (< 500,000 EUR) or risky development activities, and for which risk sharing financial participation and complementary support services are difficult to find, or not affordable.

Under strands A, B, C and D the replication or adaptation of financing or support models to be implemented in other countries (including through joint ventures or franchising) is also eligible.

There is debate about whether Social Impact Bonds are financial instruments. Given the current social context, for the purpose of this call, the preparation of Social Impact Bonds for strands A, B and C will be considered eligible under the condition that they focus on services to refugees/migrants.

Strand A: Establishment of social finance partnerships

This strand is particularly relevant for actions in countries in which the social finance market is not yet developed. It aims at addressing situations in which no suitable social finance instrument is in place, with a lack of investors or banks prepared to launch or participate in a financial instrument. Although there is little experience in specifying a sustainable investment strategy and risk/return profile of a social finance instrument, there is some openness amongst potential investors and/or public bodies to contribute to establishing a suitable finance instrument.

In order to explore options to close the gap in supply of social finance for innovative social enterprises through suitable financial instruments (including crowdfunding) and to mobilise and commit potential investors and stakeholders to cooperate in setting up a financial instrument, the grant aims at reducing the risk of engaging in the first steps towards a social finance instrument by facilitating the development of a consortium and commitment to act. It is also meant to encourage learning from good practice examples and expertise that can guide the formation of this partnership.

Strand B: Establishment of social finance instruments and mechanisms

This strand is particularly relevant for actions in countries with a relatively low level of development of the social finance market. It aims at addressing situations in which there is no suitable social finance instrument in place and potential investors, banks or intermediaries lack good practice examples and expertise that can guide the drafting of contractual agreements needed for setting up a financial instrument.

In order to mobilise and commit potential investors (private and public) and stakeholders to act and to cooperate with a view to setting up a financial instrument (including different models of crowdfunding¹²) and to give a strong signal to capital providers by demonstrating the feasibility of providing social finance, the grant is meant to reduce the risk of innovation in the social finance market by facilitating the acquisition of specific expertise in this field and act as process facilitator providing good practice examples and expertise that can guide the drafting of contractual agreements.

Strand C: Facilitating hybrid finance for social enterprises

This strand is particularly relevant for actions in countries in which different types of actors are already operating in the social finance market, but in isolation. As a result, these different types of social finance providers (e.g. foundations, social investors, banks, public authorities, notably ESIF managing authorities) apply a broad range of incoherent and unrelated financial rules and procedures, eligibility and award criteria, return expectations, conditions for repayment, requirements for accounting, impact measurement and reporting etc. In addition, there is a lack of transparency which makes it difficult for social entrepreneurs to develop an efficient mix of funding sources. Some donors, investors or financial intermediaries lack capacities and tools to assess the viability of business plans and to evaluate social impact.

Hybrid capital that combines different types of finance such as grants (public grants, philanthropic funds, and donations) and equity and debt/risk-sharing schemes can meet the specific needs of the business models of social enterprises. Hybrid finance can take many forms, ranging from models leveraging donations with loans, guarantees, or quasi-equity to combining impact investment with crowdfunding, or syndications between multiple investors with public co-investment.

This strand aims at designing, testing and establishing suitable and needs oriented hybrid financing models for social enterprises, through:

- mobilizing and committing potential investors, donors, banks, crowd-investors or public authorities to cooperate and integrate their financial contribution in specific hybrid financing packages (standardized or customized on a deal-by-deal basis), thereby testing different models;

¹² The term “crowdfunding” covers all models as described in the Commission Communication “Unleashing the potential of Crowdfunding in the European Union” (COM/2014/0172), page 3
<http://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/EN/TXT/?uri=CELEX%3A52014DC0172>

- assisting social enterprises in the legal, financial and mission-related issues of contracts for hybrid forms of finance; and,
- assisting investors and/or social enterprises in negotiating financial deals.

Strand D: Development of investment readiness support for social enterprises

This strand addresses the insufficient investment-readiness of social enterprises. Even in countries where there is a large pool of capital willing to invest in social enterprises, investments often remain complicated as social enterprises are not "investment ready". This can be explained sometimes by their low interest in repayable financial instruments due to an orientation towards the so-called grant economy, but also by a lack of necessary documents such as impact reports or business plans and insufficient experience in making proposals for external financing, or in combining different sources and types of finance (e.g. grants/loans). In many countries, the quality and quantity of start-up and business development services for social enterprises (incubators etc.) is unsatisfactory in this respect.

In order to generate a pipeline of social enterprises prepared to access social finance for development and growth, including under the EaSI programme and the future structural funds, this strand aims at developing a fine-tuned system of advisory services and capability building on social finance (including one stop shops for social enterprises) by improving the offer of specialised, experienced quality assistance and advice that help address social enterprises' weak capacity in acquiring external financing, notably combining different types of finance.

Strand E: Creation of a European level platform to reinforce the capacity of social enterprise support organisations

This strand addresses the insufficient capacities of social enterprise support organisations in Europe and the lack of cooperation between existing support organisations. To facilitate scaling up the impact of social enterprises, social enterprise support organisations need to be in a position to offer a broad spectrum of targeted assistance to social enterprises with strong societal impact and with potential for replication or adaptation.

To address this issue, the strand aims at bringing together social enterprise support organisations with relevant experience and expertise, pooling their competence, resources and approaches to offer targeted support services for social enterprises (including support for transnational scaling of the impact of social enterprises), and further developing tools, quality systems and knowledge.

To this end, the social enterprise support organisations of the applying consortium will set up a system for systematic exchange and sharing of good practices ("the platform"), which would also mobilise the knowledge and experience of already existing European and national networks and organisations in order to empower the support organisations to better operate and serve a transnational context. The platform shall also analyse and disseminate data and research on the development of the social enterprise sector in Europe.

To be able to support transnational scaling the platform should be designed in such a way that it covers the support activities related to both the "origin" and the "target" dimension of the scaling process: identification and assessment of potentially scalable social enterprises, presentation, visibility and potential replicators/adapters, capacity and capability building in the "origin" and the "target" organisations, collection of knowledge on markets, structures, networks and legal aspects in possible target countries, advice on legal aspects of partnership or franchise agreements, access to networks and partnerships, branding: quality assurance systems etc.

2.3. Expected results

- all contractual arrangements needed for the registration of the financial instrument, for fundraising, for investments, lending or underwriting and for the conduct of management; and
- the strategy and actions planned to ensure a steady and balanced deal flow and sustainability for the financial instrument.

Strand C: Facilitating hybrid finance for social enterprises

An activation and commitment of different types of investors (private investors, donors, public authorities) and intermediaries that would sign an agreement to participate in hybrid schemes of finance for social enterprises (specific hybrid schemes or tailor-made case by case financing packages), documenting:

- the roles and contributions of the financial partners to contribute to hybrid schemes of finance for social enterprises;
- the roles and tasks, working principles and methodology of the financial intermediary to identify suitable financing partners and investment-ready social enterprises, as well as monitoring and evaluation arrangements;

Strand E: Creation of a European level platform to reinforce the capacity of social enterprise support organisations

Mobilisation of social enterprise support organisations and networks to pool their expertise, resources and approaches in order to offer targeted support services for social enterprises, including support for transnational scaling-up of the impact of social enterprises:

- a signed partnership agreement between the social enterprise support organisations delivering support services (including for scaling the impact of social enterprises) which are committed to contribute to the work of the platform. The platform needs to have relevant member organisations in at least 15 EU Member States;
- a synthesis of existing tools and practices for capacity and capability building for scaling up the impact of social enterprises, and of the knowledge on key factors of success and failures in scaling;
- a long term work plan and business model to carry on the activities of the platform on a sustainable basis at EU level, notably specifying the added value of the platform's activities to its members and to the final beneficiaries;
- the articles of association and any other necessary documents for creation of a legal entity to host the platform or the contractual arrangements between the members to entrust the running of the platform to one of its members.

2.4. Monitoring

The Commission, with the support of an external contractor, will monitor regularly the EaSI Programme. Therefore, beneficiaries/contractors will have to transmit qualitative and quantitative monitoring data on the results of the activities. These will include the extent to which the principles of equality between women and men has been applied, as well as how anti-discrimination considerations, including accessibility issues, have been addressed through the activities. Related templates are attached or will be provided.

In setting up the action, beneficiaries/contractors must foresee the necessary funding for monitoring and reporting to the Commission.
